

SEATOR EDWARDS called for private papers which he did not get. He does not rely on the public paper which he got. Some men are hard to please.

The President has transmitted a message to Congress in which he demands the enforcement of the laws against the mob which assaulted the suffraging Chinese. His language is strong and vigorous.

The old political fossils do not seem pleased at the passage of the Blair Educational bill by the Senate. They would be equally displeased at its rejection. Some men, you know, must have something to grumble at.

"Chillips, the mother of orphans and chief of the nation, presided over the party." "The great feast that for the people was a feast, was held on the 10th of March." "The great feast that for the people was a feast, was held on the 10th of March."

We'll double the bet, and go on better, that she had nothing to do with county papers in the Spring time, epic or no epic.

COL. DAN, OSULLIVAN, of the Louisville Commercial, has descended from his high pedestal, and committed the unheard-of offense for a newspaper man, of writing poetry to the girls. Well, well, there is no telling to what depths a man can descend.

GEORGE HARRIS, the member from Orlan, in a recent speech in the legislature, said: "The Legislature is growing worse, and will in the course of time become worse than courtesies. The Gen. is complimentary. What a commentary on the judgment of the public!"

The Shelbyville Sentinel, one of the very best weekly newspapers in the state, has changed ownership. For the future the Sentinel will be published by a company known as the "Sentinel Publishing Company." We wish the new management golden success.

It is a gratifying fact to state that Senators and Representatives at Frankfort are now seldom seen either in the influence of liquor, either in public or in private. Heretofore, courtesy and decency were the exception. Public opinion has some effect after all.

MR. C. S. WALKER, of Owensboro, has withdrawn from the race for the Appellate Judgeship. Mr. Walker is young enough to wait. His splendid ability as a lawyer is already recognized. The people in the fullness of time will elevate him to the crime and the wooden.

A BILL has passed the Senate, incorporating the Hartford Railroad Company. This bill will likely reach the House without opposition. Our readers are not aware, perhaps, that this company is organized for the purpose of constructing a street-car road from Hartford to Beaver Dam.

LEAH began on Ash Wednesday—ends on Good Friday April 23rd, causing Easter Sunday to fall on April 24th. Last year Lent began on February 18th, and ended on the 3rd of April. Easter Sunday will be later this year than it has been for 152 years. It fell on the same season of the year in 1734.

THE HOUSE has no very good reason for not acting on Auditor Hewitt's revenue bill. The whole country is surprised at the tardiness of that body for not acting on the measure. Have they too many local bills to introduce? Are they as much afraid of the revenue bill, as of the school bill? Boys, why don't you nagle it?

AS exodus of negroes from North and South Carolina, to the extreme West has begun, and thousands are preparing to join in the movement. What new territory do the Republicans intend to admit into the Union? Is there some doubtful state in the extreme West which they wish to carry? Will Judge Edwards argue the "exodus" to the shagreened Southern juries, and introduce resolutions asking on the President for the private papers in the case?

THE trade outlet is becoming brighter slowly. Eastern exporters are receiving higher prices. The manufacturers are receiving larger orders than for the corresponding period in 1885. The grain markets East and West are becoming more and more steady. Prices generally are higher than last year, but at the end of the month, and as a consequence, the out-put of money must be generally larger, and more generally felt.

IT will be remembered that the Government lost a large amount of money to the managers of the New Orleans Exposition. They now come forward and say that the small receipts at the gates has caused a shortage of funds. Very considerable amount, and ask the Government to remit it. It remains to be seen if those who were so bitterly opposed to the Blair bill will now be so ready to support the Blair Educational bill by the Senate. They would be equally displeased at its rejection. Some men, you know, must have something to grumble at.

AT a meeting of the Grand Army Republic, held at the residence of Alameda and Georgia last week at Atlanta, Commander Gibson of the Knoxville Post said:

"I am an Ohio. I am a Tennessee. I love the South. I love the Confederate soldiers. They are worthy of our love and esteem. My heart is changed since I came to the South. I have come to stay. In the North, the people have no more idea of the true state of affairs in the South than they have of things in the moon."

THE Legislature is receiving unflinching support for its tardiness in the transaction of public business. There may be some grounds for this whole sale abuse, but if the fault-finders stop to consider for a moment, they will, we believe, find no ground to commend them to condemn.

Generally the members are clothed in the robes of ignorance. They generally the people give no instruction to the candidates themselves have no well defined ideas on matters of general import, and in this regard, the people are as much to blame as the candidates.

Public opinion must undergo change before adaptability between the office and the man can be said to exist.

THE constitutional limit of sixty days once in two years, is not sufficient to transact business for an ordinary session. It is not sufficient to transact business for an ordinary session. It is not sufficient to transact business for an ordinary session.

THE Church should devote some of its energy to this matter. No argument of necessity can justify the placing of children in companionship with hardened criminals. The child, before he is adjudged to be a delinquent, is the aged ruffian never. The Legislature could perform no more commendable work than to enact a law separating the children from the aged criminals.

WE call attention to the matter on the fourth page of this issue, under the head of "Our Common Schools." The department has been continued indefinitely. It must not be confounded with the so-called educational column, a Common School Advocate, and in it, we propose to discuss the best means of improving the district schools. The school system needs improving; the financial base needs adjustment; the grading needs consideration; the revenue needs wisdom at its head; in short, every feature needs more attention. We ask the co-operation of every person who has a thought on the subject.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE SENATE. Our readers will doubtless be aware that for some time the Republican Senate has been somewhat inclined to force the President to surrender certain of his private papers, those containing charges against Republican office holders, and that the President has refused to do so.

Mr. Edmunds, of Vermont, aspiring to leadership and mindful of the fact that these are not the days of Presidential impeachments with a great flourish of bugles introduced in the Senate a bill of resolutions Northern rebuffs. Some, however, imagined they saw the "golden" opportunity of becoming great without possessing those necessary prerequisites in such cases made and provided, and pooled their issues with the honorable senator from the frozen zone.

They calculated without their host, however, while the Republican senators were at a loss just what course to pursue, the President sent them a message defining the rights and privileges of the executive department, and refusing to let the Senate or any other body usurp those constitutional prerogatives which the law, precedent and a century of usage have guaranteed and established. The message was as unexpected as it was surprising. The Vermont Senator and his colleagues at once realized the fact that at the White House there was a President. A man knowing his rights and determined to maintain them, knowing his duty and ever ready to perform it. A man not to be frightened by the clamor, and fully equal to the exigencies, and if need be, not unwilling to carry the war into Africa.

The Republican Senators called for papers over which they had no control whatever. Private papers, and in the course of the proceedings, the government, and in their insolence and audacity threatened to send the leads of the Departments to jail. Instead of these private papers, the President sent them a public document which threw their naked confusion, and slipped in a masterly manner, a small bit of character, a terrible measure which they had contemplated.

Strenuous efforts had been made to take the discussion from executive session, which is private, to open session, where the President is indisputably attacked without an opportunity of defense. The Executive was too astute to be entrapped, so, handsomely checked them off.

proach, and that not the slightest act of suspicion rests upon them, the idea of prejudice or unfairness, according to them in their action in regard to the change made, must not be entertained for a moment.

It is a mooted question whether a county is an absolute in the regulation of its own private affairs, whether political, social or moral. There are instances in which the Democratic party of Kentucky, where counties and districts failed to comply with the action of the State Committee, yet their action was not ignored on that account. To say, therefore, that Ohio County had no right to act as she has done, is an assumption unwarranted by the facts in the case.

The real animus as we understand it, is the assumed preponderance which Ohio county still has in the selection of the candidates, for which reason the election here should be held on separate days.

We are really surprised that men of mature judgment should interject an unexpected piece of pleasantries into the discussion of a matter which may be regarded as a very grave nature. It would seem that a full vote under any circumstances would be regarded as a disavowal, but the peculiar logic is advanced that a small vote is more indicative of the popular will, than a large vote. And on this hypothesis Ohio County is held up to receive a political castigation at the hands of Davies county's senate orators to this proceeding.

Public opinion must undergo change before adaptability between the office and the man can be said to exist.

Polish County greatly excited over County Fair. The fair, which opened on Friday, the 5th inst., about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, drew well-armed men, miners, marched into Greenwood, a mining town of Polish county, and the fair was held in the town hall. The men were perfectly unarmed and demanded the removal of the fair from the town hall. The fair was held in the town hall. The fair was held in the town hall.

A call was immediately made on the Governor for protection. He responded in a proclamation to the mob to disperse, and followed it by sending five companies of the state soldiers to the town hall. The soldiers were well armed and beat the mob. The mob was dispersed. The fair was held in the town hall. The fair was held in the town hall.

The news of the trouble in Polish County has not unnerved the Legislature and thrown a damp on the whole State Government. The Legislature appointed a joint-committee on motion of Capt. Sam. H. Hill. The committee failed to agree, and asked until Thursday to report again on the matter.
